Japanese, Chinese in Christmas Play Cast at Marion Church

REPRESENTATIVES OF TWO ORIENTAL NATIONS will appear at Epworth Methodist church Sunday night in a dramatic production based on a theme of inter-racial brotherhood Japanese-American Everett Sasaki, shown above with daughter Geraldine Cynthia, featured in the play, together with Earnest Lau, Chinese college student studying in this country, appear in a cast of nine characters. Kimono worn by the child was sent to her from California by her grandmother there.

Inter-racial Brotherhood Subject of Program To Be Given Sunday.

A Chinese college student and a Japanese-American father and his small daughter will have featured roles in the play, White Christmas, by Dorothy Clark Wilson, to be presented Sunday night at Epworth Methodist church, by a cast of nine

The student, Earnest Lau, whose home is in Singapore, Malaya, in this country just three months will portray the "true to life" part of a Chinese student who has come to America to study in a university. He is the son of a native Methodist preacher in his homeland, and is enrolled in the college of arts at Oberlin college at Oberlin, O Recently, he was in Marion for the Ohio Christian Youth council conference at Epworth church.

Everett Sasaki and his year-and a half-old daughter, Geraldine Cynthia of Marion are cast as a Chinese servant in an American home, and his child, who is called "Small One" This will be Geraldine's second appearance in a play at Epworth church, as last year she and her mother, Mrs. Phyllis Yokoyama Sasaki, played the parts of an American-Japanese mother and her infant child in the Christmas presentation, "Christmas Under the Stars" by Elizabeth Emerson In one scene of the drama, they appeared in an episode of interracial and international significance as the Virgin Mary and her holy child

Married Here in 1945

Mr and Mrs. Sasaki, residents of Marion for some time, were married in Epworth church in February, 1945. Last year, their child was brought to the altar of the church for Christian baptism. Mr. Sasaki's home was formerly in Sacramento, Calif., and Mrs. Sasaki's father has been engaged in vineyard culture in California. She is a sister of Mrs. Sally Ishida, wife of Wilson Ishida who was formerly an employe of the Olds Poultry Farm and Hatchery here, and is now employed by the Hughes Photo Service. Mr. Sasaki is employed at the Harriman Dry Cleaners establishment.

Others in the cast include Mr and Mrs. Raymond Acker, Bernard Lyon, Miss Roxanna Paulin, Janie Loudenslager, and Miss Marjorie Middleton.

Centering on the theme of the situation which the Chinese student finds when he visits the home of "William and Kate Marshall," the play shows effects of race prejudice on all concerned. It is brought to a climax when the two small children in the story bring the real message of Christmas, and racial understanding to their elders.

After the arrival of the Chinese boy at the American home, a series of conflicting and disturbing situations arise, particularly in regard to the family's attitude toward the Chinese servant in the home. How the problem is solved makes up the rest of the story. Various attitudes of the several members of the cast toward Christmas are brought out in action.

Christmas To Student

To the Chinese student, Christmas is, above all else, the birthday of Christ To his host, it is "a matter of financial pleasure or annoyance, according as the Lord has prospered him" According to the story, he is the brother of the American missionary who was instrumental in arranging for the Chinese boy's stay in this country To his wife, Christmas is "an endless succession of lists of one kind or another. To their children it is a varied picture

The son looks on Christmas as "a favorable means of approach to the acquisition of a new car" The older daughter views it as "a good excuse for another party," while the eight-year-old, in her childish idealism, envisions Christmastime as a "lovesome medley of stars and cuddly babies and angels" It is her simple understanding of the meaning of Christmas that triumphs eventually over the attitudes of the others, including the narrow idea of a certain bigoted matron who makes a visit to the household, a woman who sees Christmas only as "just another Anglo-Saxon holiday"

Dress rehearsal will be Saturday night. Mr. Lau will be a guest at that time at the Sunday school Christmas party event held for the congregation at the church at 7 A sidelight of his visit to the state youth conference at Epworth is a reunion which he had with another Chinese student who was his schoolmate at a mission school they attended in Chi-

DISPUTE OVER DELAWARE DAM ROADS SETTLED

Marion County Commissioners and Army Engineers Reach Agreement.

War Department corps of Army engineers and the Marion county commissioners entered into an agreement yesterday, settling a long drawn out dispute over relocation and reconstruction of county and township roads affected by the Delaware reservoir

Commissioners signed a resolution providing for relocation, of one road, construction of a second and reconstruction of a third granting of flowage easement over part of the highway network in the area and abandonment of sections of three other roads

The agreement over which the government and Marion county have been negotiating for the past six months, provides that the government must underwrite all cost of road relocation and reconstruction and pay the county $2,000 for county cost in carrying out its part of the agreement.

One Proposal Rejected

Commissioners had refused to accept any proposal based on cash settlement, insisting the responsibility for the changes to be made necessary by the reservoir is the government's and work to be done should be borne by the engineers

They had flatly turned down a cash offer of approximately $36,000 with Marion county to do all the work.

The commissioners however had to concede to the engineers insistence that county road 140 coming in to Waldo from the east be reconstructed at elevation 934.6 rather than dam top level of 943 or higher Instead, the government agreed to relocate the St. James road near its intersection with the Rengert road at elevation 947, providing egress from the reservoir area even if the reservoir should exceed maximum flood stage

The resolution embodying the terms of agreement reached by the Huntington District engineers and the county needs only ratification by the Chief of Army Engineers and the War Department in Washington before becoming final. This procedure is regarded as little more than a necessary formality.

Terms of Agreement

Specifically the settlement terms provide abandonment and vacation of the following roads.

Approximately 4 tenths of a mile of the Prospect-Mt. Vernon road (CR-86) from its intersection with state route 23 to a point approximately a mile west of the intersection with the Gearheiser road.

Approximately half a mile of the Norton-Westfield road (township road 202) from its intersection with state route 229 to a point about a mile west from its intersection with the Delaware-Morrow county line road.

Approximately 3 tenths of a mile of the St James road (township road 141) from its intersection with the Rengert road westerly and southerly to its intersection with a proposed relocation of the St. James road

The county also consents to acquisition by the government of flowage easements over the por-

AFTER INDICTMENT. CLARK TO ASK TIGHTENING OF ESPIONAGE LAW

Says Justice Dept. Will Recommend Congress Amend Spy Legislation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 17—Attorney General Clark said today the administration will ask for tightening of the nation's espionage laws as soon as the new congress meets next month.

Clark made the statement after attending a meeting of President Truman's cabinet at the White House

Mr Truman told his news conference yesterday, in reply to a question, that he had asked Clark to look into the possibility of tightening up the espionage laws. He said the justice department had been studying the matter for some time, but that it was a difficult matter to handle and still stay within the constitution's bill of rights

Today Clark was asked what was being done by his department along the lines Mr. Truman mentioned He replied

"We'll have some recommendations right at the beginning of the session—amendments to the present statutes on espionage"

Gives No Details

He refused to go into detail

As Clark made this statement, congressional spy hunters told reporters the man accused of getting the Norden bombsight secret for Russia is a ballistics expert who has been spotted and questioned by federal agents.

The house un-American activities committee also:

Showed signs of reopening the Alger Hiss case by asking Francis B. Sayre, former assistant secretary of state and Hiss' one-time boss, to be a witness Monday or Tuesday.

Assigned Rep. McDowell (R-Pa) to go to New York as a one-man sub-committee and question other witnesses about Hiss' activities back in the 1930s.

Kept its furious feud going with President Truman and the justice department. Mr. Truman isn't changing a bit his stand that the committee spy case is a "red herring." That's what he told a news conference late yesterday.

Committee members jeered at that, especially since a New York grand jury indicted Hiss on a perjury charge on evidence turned up as a result of the committee's spy hearings

Will Go Deeper Into Case

Committeemen said they understood the bombsight suspect testified to that same grand jury and that a new grand jury will go more deeply into the case It was set up after the other jury expired at midnight Wednesday

Rep Mundt (R-SD), acting committee chairman, has said the man is a civilian employe of the Army at its Aberdeen (Md) proving ground but is temporarily on leave because of illness The proving ground tests weapons and all sorts of equipment.

The man is described as an authority on such things as rockets, bombing tables and projectiles in general, but not anyone with a fancy title or salary.

BOARD FAVORS TIME CUT AT NO PAY LOSS

Report on Findings for Million Non-Operating Workers Made to Truman.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—A presidential board today recommended that the railroads give their "non-operating" employes a seven cents an hour wage increase immediately and put them on a 40-hour week next September without loss in pay.

The non-operating workers—the clerks and mechanical workers who do not operate trains—now work 48 hours a week.

The board proposed that the seven-cent increase be retroactive to Oct. 1.

Pay Would Be Unchanged

Under the proposal, the shift to the 40-hour week would be made without any change in "take home" pay The board calculated that it would take the equivalent of a 20 per cent increase in base rates to preserve the "take home" pay unchanged

The board estimated its proposals would cost the railroads $340,000,000 in 1949 This would include $150,000,000 for the cost of the 40-hour week from September to the end of 1949, plus the seven-cent increase for all of 1949.

First reaction on the union side was a comment from George M. Harrison, head of the Brotherhood of railway clerks, that the recommendations, "on the whole afford a good basis for negotiation of a settlement of the dispute."

Two Disappointments

Harrison added: "We're disappointed that the shorter work week has been deferred until Sept. 1, 1949. Otherwise it is a step in the right direction.

We also are disappointed that the board saw fit to recommend only a seven-cent pay increase. We had asked for 25 cents.

Union leaders and railroad representatives will meet in Chicago next Monday to go over the report.

The workers had asked a cut in the work week to 40 hours, without any reduction in "take home" pay, and—on top of that—a 25 cents an hour wage increase.

The so-called "non-operating" railroad workers are those who do not operate trains.

Basis for Settlement

The board's recommendations, made today to President Truman, are not binding on the carriers or unions. But such recommendations made under terms of the railway labor act usually form the basis for dispute settlements.

The board was headed by William M. Leiserson, with David L. Cole and George Cook as members.

The board said that it felt the non-operating rail workers should get the 40-hour week because "all other interstate industries have had the 40-hour week since 1938 when the fair labor standards act was adopted"

The board said the 40-hour week "is now firmly a part of our national industrial policy."

Advise Preparation Period

The board recommended that the railroads be given until Sept. 1, 1949 to prepare for inauguration of the shorter work week.

Meanwhile, it said, an immediate seven cents hourly wage increase should be granted retroactive to Oct 1.

The board said the seven-cent increase would be "considerably lower" than the general pattern of third round wage increases in 1948

The five operating railroad unions, composed of approximately 250,000 workers who actually run the trains, settled for a 10-cent hourly increase several months ago.

The board denied requests of the 16 non-operating brotherhoods for a Monday through Friday work week, with penalty overtime and a guarantee of eight hours pay for Saturday, Sunday and holiday work

It recommended staggered work weeks of five days with two off days in seven, according to the method in vogue in other around-the-clock industries.

"Railroads must operate every day," the board noted.

The board said it was denying a number of union demands for changes in working rules and other concessions so as not to put too heavy a cost increase on the carriers at this time, along with a 40 hour week.

BERLIN RADIO BACK ON AIR

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Dec. 17—Radio Berlin was doing business at the same old stand again today. Russia's most powerful propaganda voice in Germany went back on the air only 12 hours after the French had blown up its giant transmission towers.

Soviet Commentator Heinz Schmidt began broadcasting again last night on the same wave length and apparently with the same broadcasting power, even though the station's two tall transmitting towers lay shattered in the French sector

Radio Berlin's personnel refused to say how they managed it. German engineers said they might be using another tower at Potsdam

Schmidt declared in his broadcast that an "order from Washington" not the French had been responsible for the dynamiting.

Taegliche Rundschau, official Soviet army newspaper, hinted at reprisals

"This barbaric demolition will be entered in future accounts and all necessary conclusions drawn from it," Editor S. Timofejew wrote

"German public opinion fully and completely supports the decisive protest of Soviet authorities in Berlin against the high-handed act of the French military government," the Russian editor said.

The Communist-led Socialist party issued a manifesto to all Berlin workers warning them that "American monopoly-capital and its henchmen" planned "further sabotage acts."

It called on Berliners to institute "security measures" in all industrial plants of the Soviet sector to "fight in unity with the Socialist Unity party against destroyers of the German capital"

Communist - controlled trade unions and cultural organizations in Berlin joined in heaping denunciations on both the United States and France

Brig Gen Jean Ganeval, French commandant in Berlin, said the towers were dynamited because they menaced American and British airlift planes flying into nearby Tegel airfield

PRESIDENT PRESENTS AVIATION TROPHY

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—President Truman today presents the Collier trophy for 1947—aviation's highest award — to the three Americans who first proved that man could fly faster than sound

Mr Truman will make the triple award at a formal White House ceremony to Capt Charles E. Yeager, the young air force pilot who made the first supersonic flight in October, 1947. Jack Stack, the government scientist whose research cleared the way for Yeager's flight, and Lawrence D. Bell, the manufacturer who designed and built his plane

The three were selected by a 17-man committee of the National Aeronautical association who hailed their achievement as "the greatest since the first successful flight of the original Wright Brothers' airplane"

Their names have been inscribed permanently on the historic trophy, which was established in 1911 by the late Robert Collier, former editor and son of the founder of Collier's weekly, to help advance the science of aeronautics

Yeager is a 25-year-old veteran of 64 combat missions in the European theater, during which he destroyed 13 German planes and was shot down once himself He is married and the father of two young sons.

After his combat service, he was ordered to Wright Field, O., as a fighter-plane test pilot, and was picked in 1947 to attempt the first supersonic flight in the experimental rocket ship built by Bell—the X-1.

Based on research work by Stack, the X-1 was designed to fly at 1,700 miles an hour—more than twice the speed of sound—at an altitude of 80,000 feet.

Yeager made the first recorded flight faster than sound in the X-1 over Muroc Dry Lake, Cal., on Oct. 14, 1947. The actual speed and the altitude at which he flew have been kept secret.

Yeager and a number of other test pilots subsequently have duplicated that feat "many times" in the same plane.

FIRE CAUSES $2,500 DAMAGE

Early Morning Blaze Sweeps Smitty's Bar and Grill Here.

A fire at Smitty's Bar and Grill at 148 South Main street at 2 19 a. m. today caused an estimated $2,500 damage.

The fire was discovered by Ralph Nicolosi, proprietor of the Hub Bar and Grill, when he noticed smoke pouring from the front of the place as he crossed South Main street.

He ran to the Ritz Bar and Grill, nearby, operated by his brother Robino Nicolosi, who called in the alarm.

Two fire companies from Central Fire station used two small and one large high pressure line for almost an hour to extinguish the blaze which was out at 3 06 a m Two families living in apartments over the bar were removed by police

Extent of Damage

The fire damaged a large beverage cooler, fifteen feet of restaurant counter, and part of the floor The intense heat and damage from smoke cracked a large glass in the front door, cracked a large mirror on the wall in the dining room and damaged walls and decorations with smoke stains Fire Chief Owen A Sifritt estimated the fire damage.

There was no one in the place when the fire broke out. Chief Sifritt fixed the cause of the fire as a discarded lighted cigaret, swept up with the floor sweepings and left smouldering in a cardboard carton at the end of the counter

Closed at 1 a. m.

Harold Smith, owner and manager of the grill told firemen he locked the place and left for his home at 536 Forest street at 1 10 a m One hour and nine minutes later Ralph Nicolosi noticed the blaze and gave the alarm Robino Nicolosi called Mr Smith from his home by phone immediately after reporting the fire

The grill was reopened for business on schedule today despite the fire damage

Rebuilding to repair fire damage was already started, Mr Smith said today He plans to have the entire interior of the grill redecorated and all new equipment installed to replace that damaged by the fire

The Ritz Bar and Grill, operated by Robino Nicolosi, served coffee and doughnuts to the firemen after the blaze was extinguished.

HUNT FRIEND IN MURDER ON GUAM

Police Believe Victim Knew Her Attacker.

(Picture on Page 9)

By The United Press

AGANA, GUAM, Dec 17—Police indicated today the rape-slayer of beautiful Ruth Farnsworth may have been a friend or acquaintance whom she trusted

After questioning and releasing more than 400 men in their search for the killer of the "most beautiful girl in Guam," police theorized it was possible Miss Farnsworth knew the identity of her attacker

This theory was based principally on the evidence the girl apparently turned out the lights in the jade store in which she worked and came from behind the counter unarmed to meet him, although a loaded gun was available behind the counter

She also could have tried to escape through a rear door of the jade shop, if she had been frightened upon first seeing the man who was to drag her into the nearby jungle, criminally assault her and beat her so savagely that she died. But there was no evidence to indicate that she made a run for the back door.

A police guard was established near the home of Navy Lt. Joseph Karrell publisher of the Guam News after he received an anonymous telephone call warning him he risked being shot by publishing the Farnsworth case.

Police have narrowed the search for the killer down to a few suspects One man, who has been questioned thoroughly, has "occa-

QUQUA DITCH WORK HELD UP

Mayor Seeks To Solve Problem as Rains Revive Drainage Trouble.

Mayor Harry L. Dapkin had a hard day yesterday.

Admittedly in self-defense, the mayor called newsmen to city hall late yesterday to hear a report of progress on the Ququa ditch program.

From early morning until far into the night irate East Side residents, many of them with cellars flooded by recent rains, advised the mayor of their displeasure with the city sanitary and storm water sewer program, which the Ququa ditch is to increase in efficiency by providing an outlet for water which causes the flooding of cellars.

Here is how the Ququa ditch project stands at present as reported by the Mayor.

Ditch Clean-out Complete

All two and one-half miles of the Ququa ditch have been cleaned out by the Plumley Trucking and Excavating Co All open ditch work has been completed all the way from just south of Mt Vernon avenue to the Children's home.

Completion of the project has been delayed for almost three months while negotiations for needed rights-of-way for the sewer project went on between the city and three property owners Two of these property owners have already completed negotiations with the city, one of them as recently as yesterday.

The final barrier to completion of the ditch project is the lack of a right-of-way over one piece of property just south of

FLOOD WATERS STILL RISING IN COUNTY

Crest Not Reached Despite Clearing Weather.

Flooded roads are still reported in the southwest and west sides of the county despite clear weather which dried up flood threats in most parts of the state.

The worst county flooded road is route 203 along the Scioto river between Meadows and Prospect. Here the road is closed and flood waters continue to rise. State highway engineers expected the crest of the Scioto to reach the Prospect district today after which the waters are expected to recede speedily.

Route 95 is covered by flood waters from six inches to a foot deep in three places between LaRue and Marion. Motorists have succeeded in fording the waters and traffic over the routes has never been halted. The first flooded area on route 95 is at the east corporation limit of LaRue, the second is three miles and the third four miles east of the LaRue limits.

Walter W. Johnson, Marion county engineer, reports several county roads in the LaRue-Green Camp areas are flooded. Road patrols under the direction of Walter Hetler, county road supervisor are patrolling all flooded areas, marking roads as the waters cover them, and removing flood warnings as the waters recede.

No roads were reported flooded today in the Caledonia area although for a while yesterday shallow waters covered route 30-S east of Caledonia.

Cold, clear weather dried up threat of further floods in central and southern Ohio today, The Associated Press reported.

Anglican Church Head's Son To Marry Catholic

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 17—A son of the Church of England's highest clergyman and a Roman Catholic artist plan to marry tomorrow.

The bridegroom is Henry Pears Fisher, 30, eldest son of the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher. He was a lieutenant colonel in the British army during the war and is now a prominent barrister.

The bride is Miss Felicity Sutton, 26, of Chelsea, some of whose paintings hang in the royal academy. She announced the ceremony will be held in the Roman Catholic church of Our Most Holy Redeemer and St. Thomas. Fisher's mother and five brothers will attend, she said, but the Anglican primate will not.

"He is, after all, the head of the Church of England and could not attend a Catholic service," Miss Sutton added. "It would be like attending a service at the Vatican. In the same way, the Pope could not attend a service in Westminster Abbey."

She said the marriage is a controversial matter, but the romance "is our own personal affair."

Hospital Patients Make Yule Gifts

LEATHER TOOLING ART is learned in bed at Trudeau Sanatorium, Saranac Lake, N. Y.

By DAVID G. BARZUTHER
Associated Press Writer

Thousands of patients in hospitals, sanatoria and other institutions throughout the country are busy today making Christmas gifts.

Short of funds in most cases, because of their medical expenses and enforced unemployment, these patients are finding with the guidance of instructors they are able to make gifts by hand that often prove more attractive than mechanically manufactured articles.

They are tooling and stitching leather wallets and purses, fashioning elaborate book covers, hammering silver costume jewelry, knitting and sewing wearing apparel, making toys and molding bricabrac. And they are having a lot of fun in their work.

Doctors look on approvingly. They see this work helping to cure their patients. It raises thoughts and interests above present handicaps. The doctors call it occupational therapy—a healing by working.

• • •

IN MANY CASES the work goes far beyond mere diversion and recreation. It helps to fit the patient for a new job. Such rehabilitation has long been successful among the blind and in large veterans' hospitals. It is being extended steadily among all types of temporary and permanent invalids.

One of the most interesting extensions has been achieved in the treatment of tuberculosis—a disease that requires long periods of supervised rest. Since compulsory idleness can bring about what is called "institutionalitis"—a fear of leaving a sanatorium—the creation of new interests among tubercular patients becomes highly important.

A big proportion of the funds raised when you buy the Christmas seals of the National Tuberculosis Association is used for such work in fitting TB victims to enter the world of work again.

An interesting example of how this is done is offered by the workshop at Trudeau Sanatorium, Saranac Lake, N. Y., which was the first institution of its kind in America. Here all instructors have been selected from the patient group. Convalescents, who exhibit talents in craftsmanship and teaching ability, often are enabled to earn their board and medical expenses by working part time on the rehabilitation project directed by Miss Alma Pierce. When considered cured, some remain as full time instructors.

THEY GO FROM bedside to bedside, teaching foreign languages, book binding, lettering and illuminating, encouraging young artists in every field, and even showing men how to knit. In the past year close to 300 ambulatory patients and more than 100 bed patients at Trudeau were instructed in 14 crafts.

The workshop at Trudeau is used for a tryout and exploration of skills and abilities, training in arts and crafts, and in development of work tolerances under medical prescription. The medical staff calls the workshop a necessary instrument in treatment—emotionally, spiritually, creatively, physically and vocationally.

In addition to solving the Christmas gift problem for hard-pressed patients, this workshop contributes to the Adirondack Craftsman's Show staged at Saranac Lake every August. This is a miniature world's fair of hand work turned out by the many sanatoria in that area, including Trudeau, Will Rogers' Memorial, Raybrook State Sanatorium, Tupper Lake Veterans' Hospital, and various private institutions and rest homes.

CHIANG ARMY PULLS OUT OF CHUHSIEN

By The Associated Press

NANKING Dec. 17—Supreme headquarters of Chiang Kai-shek's east China Command today began withdrawing from threatened Pengpu to Chuhsien, only 30 miles north of this uneasy capital.

Pengpu, 105 miles northwest of Nanking, was the anchor for the government's new Hwai river defense line. It became Nationalist headquarters after the abandonment of the stronghold of Suchow, 100 miles farther north.

The withdrawal coincided with reliable reports that the government's battered 12th army group, trapped by the Chinese Communists northwest of Pengpu for 18 days, has been wiped out.

Official dispatches Thursday reported that the 12th was making a last stand with less than half its original force of 110,000 troops. They were described as compressed into an area of only three miles in circumference.

(The Chinese Communist radio claimed yesterday that the 12th had been wiped out).

ATOMIC SCIENTIST KIWANIS SPEAKER

Dr. Marion L. Pool, Who Saw Bikini Test, on Program.

One of the outstanding scientists at Ohio State University Dr Marion L Pool professor of the Department of Physics and Astronomy at OSU was guest speaker at the Kiwanis club weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at Hotel Harding

Accompanying Dr Pool here was Edward Campbell, executive secretary of the alumni fund of Ohio State university Robert T Mason was program chairman

Dr Pool a witness to the atomic bomb test at Bikini in the summer of 1946, spoke on atomic energy or radio activity No sensational charges will be made in the atomic world for a number of years, Dr Pool explained because of extensive experiments which are now underway

Three fundamental basic ideas in the field of nuclear physics control our present knowledge he said are giant building blocks electrons and magnetism are the fundamental particles which control all movements are electron or mass proton or the nucleus of hydrogen atom and neutron or no charge

Dr Pool likened the atom unto the solar system with the nucleus as the sun. The atomic age is just beginning he said, with several years required for development He explained that the action of atomic energy can be controlled and regulated

Dr Pool illustrated his talk with pictures which brought out the action of the atom, and also showed pictures of the explosion at Bikini The atom explosion brings out a greater degree of heat than the sun, he explained, and hot gases go up to a height of eight miles being four miles in diameter. These he said, do freeze at the top

An announcement was made that the Kiwanis club will man a Salvation Army kettle at the National City Bank Building corner on Saturday.

A guest of the club was Dwight L Barger of Whittier, Calif.

CAR FRAUD VICTIMS PAID FIVE PER CENT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND Dec 17—Nearly 500 claimants who deposited money with Jack W Singleton for 'almost new' cars never received will receive checks next week representing five per cent of claims

The dividend means an average of about $100 for each victim

Theodore R Spitka, attorney for Morris R. Blane, receiver in bankruptcy, said the first dividend would be followed eventually by a second and final one of two or three per cent He said the entire loss, averaging about $1,840 a customer, may be claimed on 1948 income tax returns

Authorities said they had abandoned hope of recovering the entire amount of customers' losses. They said Singleton apparently frittered away about $900,000 in other persons' money by high living and lavish salaries and by paying more for the new cars he did deliver than he sold them for

Singleton was convicted of fraud and is serving a 10-to-70-year sentence in Ohio penitentiary.

OHIO GRANGE FAVORS STRAIGHT PARITY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND Dec 17 The Ohio State Grange wants government support of major farm commodities set at straight 90 per cent of parity

In its closing convention session yesterday the state group also recommended congress amend the present law to allow government control of crop acreage

The parity stand differs sharply from that of the national Grange which favors continuation of the present sliding scale of 60 to 90 per cent of parity on some and no modities

It also represents a victory for State Master Joseph W Fichter who personally led the convention battle for re-establishment of 'new deal' controls

Columbus was chosen for the next convention in 1950

In other resolutions the Grange Favored retention of laws prohibiting the sale of yellow oleomargarine, opposed daylight saving time asked teeth for a state law requiring testing of cattle for bangs disease and tuberculosis asked additional funds for soil conservation and advocated rabies inoculation of all dogs

The convention passed a resolution opposing construction of an Ohio river-Lake Erie canal or any turnpike or toll road unless privately financed and built with the understanding it would revert to the state at the end of 30 years

It also asked that the state be made responsible for damage resulting from collisions between automobiles and protected wild game

In the matter of taxes the Grange took these stands

Opposed changes in the present federal law exempting cooperatives from federal income statutes asked that the existing real estate tax be removed from coal land held purely for mining purposes, advocated removal of the present state tangible property tax against grain, feed and bedding used in the production of crops or livestock

Late Shoppers May Ring Up Sales Record

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 17—Late Yule shoppers are giving a rosy Christmas sales report after all.

If their last minute buying overcomes a six-week slump it will mark the eleventh straight banner year for retailers.

Latest federal reserve board reports on department store sales today revealed an upturn as the gift shoppers headed into the stretch drive.

Although the sales decline from last week's record high marked its sixth consecutive week in the period ending Dec 11 these signs point to ringing prospects

1 The drop in the national average as only one per cent below the same week last year, compared with five to nine per cent declines in the five previous weeks

2 Gains over last year showed up in nearly half the country—Pennsylvania and Ohio, the south and southwest In all other weeks since the slump started, the drop had been nationwide

3 The Dec 11 gain over the previous week was far greater than in 1947. On the board's indicator chart, the 1948 jump was 79 points against 62 points in 1947.

ROADS

tions of county and township roads affected and grants right of entry over county roads to the government for the construction and recondition to be done by the engineers

To Maintain Roads

Upon completion of the work, the county agrees to incorporate the changes made into the county or township system and maintain them as regularly established roads The county also agrees to remove certain bridges located on the sections of roads to be vacated

The engineers agreed that the government is to make surveys, prepare plans and specifications subject to the approval of Walter W Johnson, county engineer, furnish all labor, materials and equipment and perform all construction and other work for the following projects

Construction of a connecting road between the Prospect-Mt Vernon road and the Waldo-Fulton road at elevation 947

Reconstruction of the Waldo-Fulton road to bring the low portion of that road to a minimum elevation of 934 6

Relocation of the St James road near its intersection with the Rengert road at a minimum elevation of 947.

The first project provides for approximately a half mile of new road, 22 feet wide from berm to berm with a 14 foot wide black-top surface The second calls for a 28 foot roadway with a 16 foot black-top surface and the third for a 22 foot roadway with a 12 foot wide surface.

A member of the Huntington staff of engineers admitted that it had been unofficially estimated it would take at least $45,000 for the government to do the job, despite the fact that their cash offer to the county as settlement with the county undertaking all the work was only $38,000 exclusive of surveys, plans and other engineering costs which the county would have otherwise born.

Flowage Easements

The flowage easements the government will require cover the following roads: Whetstone River Road in Richland Twp, 2 mile; Newman Cardington Road in Richland Twp., .1 mile, Bethlehem Road in Waldo Twp. 2 mile; St. James Road in Waldo and Richland Twps., .1 mile, Donithen Road, 4 mile and the following all in Waldo Twp. Waldo Fulton Road, .6; Gearhiser road, 1.74; Prospect-Mt Vernon road, .2, Waldo Westfield, .38 and Brundige road, .37.

The easements will be acquired through the customary procedure consisting of condemnation proceedings to which the county has agreed under the terms of the settlement. The easements will be obtained without awarding of damages to the county inasmuch as the government has agreed to do all the road construction and relocation work.

Reaching of the agreement between the commissioners and the army engineers clears the way for completion of the Waldo levee project. Until an agreement was reached or the alternative of condemnation proceedings instigated by the government the army engineers could not finish the project inasmuch that section of the Prospect-Mt. Vernon road which the commissioners have just agreed to vacate crosses the line of the dike Now that an agreement has been reached engineers can close the gap to complete the dike

With completion of the dike the Waldo project is virtually finished Erection of pumping stations to lift drainage flow from the west over the dike and into the river at Waldo will wind up the project Relocation of Route 98 has been completed and in operation at the present time

"KITTY HAWK" IS WELCOMED HOME

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Dec 17 — The Wright brothers' airplane symbol of man's conquest of the air today was officially welcomed home

The frail craft now hanging in the Smithsonian institution was formally accepted for the nation in a ceremony just 45 years to the hour after Wilbur and Orville Wright took the machine aloft from the sands near Kitty Hawk, N C

President Truman sent a message read to the 800 guests present saying the Wright plane will quicken in all hearts an appreciation of the achievements of American inventive genius "

The guests sat beneath the Kitty Hawk" as the Wright plane is known after the site where it first flew, and The Spirit of St Louis, the plane flown by Charles A Lindbergh on his historic New York-Paris flight in 1927

Both planes now are suspended from the ceiling in the north hall of the museum's arts and industry building For 20 years the Kitty Hawk was on display in the British museum in London until it was recently returned to the United States

As the acceptance ceremony took place, jet planes flashed across the sky and huge B-29's and B-36 s roared over the capital in an air display perhaps even undreamed of by the Wrights when they built their small flying machine

Mr Truman's message, read by his Air Force aide, Col Robert R Landrey, joined in expressing gratitude to the Wright heirs for their cooperation in making the priceless relic available for display in the national museum

Chief Justice Vinson, as chancellor of the Smithsonion, formally accepted the plane from the Wright estate, represented by Milton Wright of Dayton, O.

PLAN COMPROMISE IN SCHOOL DISPUTE

By The Associated Press

TWINSBURG, O., Dec. 17—A move that was expected today to end a dispute which has closed the Twinsburg high school for the past five days.

Oscar Stage, a member of the newly-formed Real Estate Owners league, said the program was worked out in Columbus yesterday with the help of state education officials.

It calls for reopening of the school after Christmas with parents agreeing to abide by the school board. A joint committee of two members of the real estate group and the Twinsburg Citizens league would work with the board in school affairs.

The proposal was expected to be considered at two meetings tonight, one between the board and the real estate group and the other between the board and parents.

Principal Glen Powell and the school board are supported by the Citizens league while the real estate group has demanded that both be removed.

Closing of the school Monday followed the mass resignation last week of Powell and the school's 17 faculty members because of "outside intereference." The school board later tabled the resignations.

Housewives' Rebuttal

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—TOUCH people on a sore point, and they holler.

And sometimes I feel sorry for Dr. Gallup, Sir Gallahad Dogeater and other well known seekers of the truth.

These two observations result from a little adventure I made last week into the field of domestic science.

I wrote a little essay on why housewives are always tired. My theme was that they wore themselves out lying down and getting up so many times during the day, trying to sandwich in brief periods of rest between their household tasks.

Hal Boyle

Well, as many a fellow who met Joe Louis has remarked afterward, "what happened?"

A number of gentle ladies across the land jettisoned their Christmas spirit of good will—but pronto. They sat down and wrote me indignant letters beginning:

"Dear Stinker—"

Upon my Lifebuoy! Where do gracious women learn to unleash such vocabularies of invective? Some of the letters were so hot I had to read them held at arm-length with a pair of fire tongs.

The only suggestion I had made was that housewives should cease flopping on bed couch or armchair between each chore. The idea was that they should stay on their feet longer and get more work done and take fewer but longer rest periods in between.

• • •

SINCE MOST housewives are overweight, this would conserve much of the energy they now waste getting up and down so often. And they would feel more like accepting their husbands' eager plea to go out for an evening of dancing.

The chorus of most of the letters revoking me was:

"It isn't true. We don't flop between tasks. We're on our feet all day long."

But are they? Two ladies who may be traitors to their sex agreed I was right.

"Keeping house for two children plus a husband requires a lot of flopping," wrote a Valdosta, Ga., housewife.

And an equally honest Brooklyn wife said.

"You are so right. My husband howled—the beast."

The most interesting letter of dissent came, not from a wife, but from a husband — my old friend, "Fuzzy" Macaskill, a man who has invested $2 a day for years with the dual purpose of protecting his old age and keeping the horseracing industry on a firm footing.

"I suggest you take over at home for a couple of days and really get the right slant on this housework problem, like I am now," wrote Fuzzy.

• • •

HE BECAME MAESTRO of brush and broom after his blonde director came down with sciatica. His first day he washed nine windows, answered the doorbell six times—once for a man who wanted to sell him a book called "How To Use Your Leisure Time." He made four trips to grocery and drug stores, let the dog in and out eight times and had to stir the pup up his own special breakfast of bran and raisins.

"I got up at 6:30 a. m., and fell across the bed exhausted at 8:30 p. m.," wailed Fuzzy. "And tomorrow I have to iron the clothes I forgot to put out on the line today.

"I am flopping all right, but it's not from lack of work—it's because of it.

"Boy, will I be glad when my wife is able to take over again—so glad I'll wash the dishes every night from now on without being asked."

Okay, Fuzzy. I'll take your word for it.

"Old Folks at Home," popular American song, earned its author, Stephen Foster, only $1,647.46 during his lifetime.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Joe Louis is waiting until June for Santa. He is asking for a pair of gloves, an opponent and $250,000 of the television and radio take.

• • •

The present field of challengers might be worth $2.50 to some spendthrift network if they all would get in the ring with Louis at the same time.

• • •

But, radio is in another state of flux anyway. With this capital-gains business a performer is apt to wind up either on the big board or the curb.

• • •

I don't think Radio Daily and the Wall Street Journal will merge but I hear Hooper's rating now comes on ticker tape.

• • •

And one agency starts its auditions with "what was your last 'bid' and 'asked'?"

Rules Accomplice In Murder Must Die

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 17—Ova B. Curnutt, 45, of Cincinnati, must die Jan. 14 in Ohio penitentiary's electric chair for inducing his nephew to commit murder, the Ohio supreme court ruled Wednesday.

Curnutt's nephew, Elmer Curnutt, 21, was executed last July 16 for the robbery slaying of Thomas Wilson, a crippled cafe owner, on Dec. 2, 1947.

The uncle was convicted of first degree murder on the grounds he persuaded his nephew to rob and kill Wilson. The men obtained $250.

Ova Curnutt's conviction in Hamilton county courts was upheld by the appellate court, and the supreme court yesterday refused to review the case. The uncle, sometimes known as Ova B. Cornette, is in Ohio penitentiary death row.

Women's Service Clubs Aid Salvation Army

Members of two Marion service clubs, Business and Professional Women, and Altrusa, gave several hours of time this week assisting Salvation Army peronnel in the filling and wrapping of more than 650 Christmas "sunshine baskets" for Marion and Union county institutions. Business and Professional Women's members worked two nights, Monday and Wednesday, and the Altrusa worked Wednesday night. In addition, Mrs. Florence Baber, a member of the Salvation Army board, and Mrs. Harold Neidhart and Mrs. Vernon Russell, worked Tuesday afternoon.

The baskets were filled with rolls of candy, oranges, wash cloths, hand lotion and bobby pins for women, small combs, tooth brushes and other various items, and candy canes and popcorn balls for children. Each was then tied up in large squares of red and green cellophane, with paper ribbon. Groups of baskets were then packed in cartons and marked for various destinations.

Ten institutions receiving the baskets will be the Marion county home, children's home, Waddell Ladies' home, Riffee rest home, City hospital, city and county jails and detention home, and the Ohio State Reformatory for Women at Marysville and the Union county home.

NEWS VIEWS

By Midtown Chevrolet Co.

Some time back Sen. Taft suggested that former presidents of the United States ought to be pensioned when they leave the White House and Rep. Canfield of New Jersey brought up a bill to that effect. It got about as much response as an echo in a vacant house . . . but it's a logical idea for all that. At present Mr. Hoover is our only living ex-president, and reports say he needs a pension about as much as the ocean needs water. But many men have left the White House with nothing but their hands in their pockets. When a man has been the leader of his country, he deserves a lot of credit . . . but a little cash would also be acceptable.

In New York a man got out of his car to talk with a driver who had just crashed into him, and the other driver turned out to be his wife. Wonder what he said? TESTIFIES IN BELL TELEPHONE HEARING

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 17 — Bell Telephone payments to American Telephone & Telegraph Co. were reduced by one third last October to smooth the way for nationwide phone rate increases, an AT&T official testified yesterday.

Henry C. Gretz of New York, AT&T's assistant comptroller, told the state utilities commission that AT&T reduced charges to Bell subsidiaries primarily to counter rate increase objections based on fees paid the parent company.

Bell Telephone companies now pay AT&T one per cent of their gross annual revenues. Prior to Oct. 1, 1948, the fees were one and one-half per cent of gross revenues, Gretz said.

Gretz's testimony came as the commission resumed a hearing on Ohio Bell Telephone company's request for a nine-percent, state-wide rate increase. Ohio Bell claims the higher rate would boost annual revenues $8,500,000, offset increased operating costs and draw investment capital needed to make necessary improvements in service.

The communities of Cleveland, Columbus, Clinton, Akron, Dayton, Youngstown, Springfield, Toledo, Tiffin, Defiance, Steubenville, Struthers, Ironton, Grandview Heights and Campbell are opposing the increase.

Ohio Bell finished its case Dec. 2. The commission gave the communities until yesterday to prepare their case.

THIS SANTA IS AGAINST SNOW

And No Wonder, for White Christmas Hurts Business at Santa Claus, Ind.

By The United Press

SANTA CLAUS, Ind., Dec. 17 —Santa Claus said today that there's one thing he can't stand: Snow.

In this tiny hamlet, where Christmas is big business snow is something no one wants.

"Snow may be part of Christmas," one of Santa's helpers said, "but it hurts our business."

The town's two Santa Claus palaces expect 300,000 persons to visit here during the Yuletide, if it doesn't snow. A heavy snowfall over southern Indiana's scenic hills would keep motorists at home.

Need Good Driving

"People won't drive through snow and ice even to see Santa Claus himself," said William Koch, who runs Santa Claus Land, one of two competing enterprises in the village.

"We haven't had a bad snow before Christmas for several years," he said. "We hope we don't get any snow until after Christmas. It keeps folks away."

Milton Harris, the other Santa Claus whose Candy Castle and toy displays are a mile down the road, said he personally likes a white Christmas, but agreed it would hurt business.

He said that with good weather, about 25,000 persons visit the town on Sundays during the holiday season. Many mail cards and gifts under the famous Santa Claus postmark.

Huge Mail Business

The postmaster, Elvert Reinecke, said he expected a record load of 7,000,000 pieces of mail this year. Individuals and commercial firms sends bags of mail here to be remailed.

Two years ago the postoffice department moved the postoffice from the village proper to Koch's Santa Claus Land. Harris, whose place is near the old location, has waged an unsuccessful fight to have it "brought back to the historic Santa Claus." Koch contends the old postoffice was too small.

Harris says that the town's residents now have to walk a mile for their mail.

In Rival Businesses

Residents have taken sides usually depending on where they work, since the two Santa Claus palaces are the town's principal industries.

However, during the Christmas season, every one is too busy to spend much time arguing about the controversy. Right now, there is enough business for both palaces.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

TYRUS RAYMOND (TY) COBB, born Dec. 17, 1886, in Banks County, Ga. Known as the "richest baseball player" when he retired. Ty started with the Augusta, Ga., club. He was sold to Detroit in 1905 and began a rise that made him one of the game's greatest. After 24 years he had a lifetime average of .367 and stole 892 bases in 3,033 games. He led American League batters 12 years, three times hitting above .400.

Waldo K. of P. Lodge Holds Visitation

Visitation night was observed by Whetstone Lodge No. 718, Knights of Pythias of Waldo, Wednesday night when the members entertained district and grand officers and members from Morral and Green Camp lodges. Guests included Harry Boldinger of Crestline, district deputy and George Thompson of Columbus, grand outer guard. Gail Shoaf, county deputy, was in charge of the meeting. It was announced the page rank would be conferred at LaRue Tuesday night with Crestline degree staff and the lodges in the county taking part in the work. On Jan. 13 the Green Camp lodge will be host for visitation night and grand officers also will be present. Following the meeting there was a smoker and refreshments.

CHRISTMAS PARTY HELD FOR CHILDREN

Y's Men Entertain Youngsters from Home.

An annual Christmas party for children of the Marion County Children's Home was held by the Y Men's club Thursday night in the Club Co-Ed rooms at the YMCA. In addition to the children, wives of the members were guests. Dinner was served to about 100 persons, 38 of whom were children.

Accompanying the children from the home were Mrs. Mac D. Metz and Mrs. Laura B. King.

The rooms were gaily decorated for the party with streamers, a large lighted Christmas tree, garlands and wreaths, and two large red and white canes were at either side of the bandstand.

Jack Boyd presided as master of ceremonies for the evening's entertainment. The program included music by the Eagles band, a performance by a group from the Martha Douce baton twirling school, which included in addition to Miss Douce, Peggy Walker, Mike Pellabaum, Dorothy Douce and Dorothy Cooper, accompanied at the piano by Robert Blankenship, and a dog act by C. Hall of Ashley.

Later in the evening, Santa Claus arrived and distributed gifts to each of the children. Those children of pre-school age, unable to attend were sent gifts. Each child also received a treat of candy canes, popcorn balls and other candy.

The committee from the club in charge of arrangements for the party was composed of Jack Boyd, James Arnold, Floyd Wilhelm, Lowell Shambaugh, Richard Meister and John Holliday.

QUQUA

Reed avenue. The owner of the property a woman, is very ill in City hospital and because of the delicate state of her health members of her family have been loath to trouble her with a business matter, the mayor said.

Final Steps Planned

Further delay on the project from any source is rapidly approaching an intolerable state, the mayor believed. Unless property negotiations can be reached by next council meeting the matter of the right-of-way is expected to be handed to council for a start of condemnation proceedings in order that the project may go into its final stage of development.

Every possible effort is being made by the city administration to finish the Ququa project as quickly as possible, the mayor reported.

Columbus Income Tax Brings in $2 Million

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 17 — City payroll-income tax collections in Columbus topped the $2,000,000 mark Wednesday, City Treasurer Roy M. King announced. The city began collecting a one-half of one per cent levy Jan. 1.

King said receipts — which totaled $2,005,000 at day's end yesterday — were running ahead of estimates by $130,000.

City Auditor R. P. Bathalow estimated last January that the tax would yield $1,875,000 by Dec. 31 and $2,500,000 March 15, when final returns are due on 1948 incomes.

SEES DIRTY POLITICS IN LIQUOR ACTION

By The Associated Press

CIRCLEVILLE, O., Dec. 17—Mayor Thurman I Miller charged yesterday "there's a lot of dirty politics mixed up" in the state liquor board's accusation that Circleville does not cooperate in enforcing liquor laws.

Mayor Miller said the board was "attempting to make a whipping boy of little Circleville in a situation that obviously is state-wide."

The liquor board earlier this week asked Circleville to show cause within 30 days why the city's liquor fees rebates should not be withheld. It was the first order of its kind in the board's 14-year history.

Under state law, permit fees paid by night clubs, cafes, package stores and similar establishments are returnable in full to the local taxing district for use in local enforcement.

Iberia 4-H Clubs Top 100 Bu. Corn Per Acre

Special to The Star

IBERIA — The Iberia Triplet 4-H clubs are proud of their achievement of receiving a check for $225 from a two-acre corn plot which produced over 100 bushels per acre. The project was an outstanding one, according to Morrow County Agent Elwood Davis.

James Sautter, president of one of the clubs, was given the check by Melvin Sharrock of the Sharrock elevator in Mt. Gilead, who purchased the corn. The money was placed in the Mt. Gilead People's Savings bank in custody of Aaron Smith, finance chairman of the Iberia Boys' 4-H advisory staff, who donated the plot of ground to the boys.

C. E. Shumaker, local seed corn producer, and Horace Braden donated the seed corn special tests and figures compiled on field days were carefully recorded by the group under the supervision of R. Stark Beard, Iberia-Mt. Gilead Vo-ag teacher. Albert Sautter donated his services to pick the corn and William Rinehart hauled the corn to market.

A corn husking contest was held on the same day and the winners were Floren Hildebrand of Mt. Gilead and James and Ronald Sutter of near Iberia. Prizes were donated by the Turner Supply Co. of Mt. Gilead and Homer Thatcher of Iberia.

4 Traffic Arrests Reported by Patrol

Four traffic arrests were reported today by the highway patrol for the last 24 hours.

Herman Steffens of Columbus was arrested on route 23 in Delaware county for speeding at 9:40 p. m. last night. He was fined $10 and costs in Delaware mayor's court.

For failure to register a trailer, Godfrey Schiller of near Ashley was fined $10 and costs in Cardington mayor's court. He was arrested on route 229 in Morrow county at 2:15 p. m. yesterday.

Kenneth Converse of near Forest was arrested at 10:50 last night on a charge of passing without the assured clear distance on route 30-S west of Marion. He posted a $25 bond for his appearance in municipal court tomorrow.

At 5 p. m. yesterday William Sweeney of West Lafayette, Ind., was arrested for driving over a freshly painted centerline on route 98 in Crawford county. He was fined $5 and costs by mayor's court of Tiro.

Potluck Supper Marks Meeting of Auxiliary

A potluck supper preceded a meeting of the Auxiliary to Geran-Thomas Post No. 3313, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Wednesday night in the post club rooms on Court street. A Christmas gift exchange was held during the social hour.

During the business meeting, five applications for membership were read, $10 was voted to be given to the VFW National Home, and it was decided to fix four Christmas baskets for needy families. An auction followed the meeting, the proceeds from which will go into the relief fund.

Toledo Banquet Of Champs Reads Like Sports Who's Who

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO, Dec. 17—Two dozen of America's sports champions in all cameras today gills received a probably the [illegible] banquet ever held [illegible] and brogue it was, for not a speech was made as the [illegible] football, baseball, [illegible] basketball hockey, auto racing and [illegible] sports were honored last night.

[illegible] Spitzman, president [illegible] Sports Parade [illegible] and Franklin Stratford [illegible] muscle man champion [illegible] Britain, Canada and Mexico, was host at the affair. It attracted the cream of the nation's newspaper and radio talent as well as onlookers.

Just a few of the crowd of some 250 were such notables as Billy Southworth manager of the National league champion Boston Braves; A. B. (Happy) Chandler, commissioner of baseball; Harold (Red) Grange, Illinois' "Galloping Ghost"; Mike Peppe, Ohio State and Olympic swimming-diving coach; Tootsie Shot, the robust and highly - publicized tavern owner from New York; Carl Snavely, North Carolina coach whose team will play in the Sugar Bowl come new Year's day; Wilbur Shaw, several time winner of the 500-mile Indianapolis speedway race; Will Harridge, American league president; Ohio's governor Tom Herbert; Tony Hulman, president of the Indianapolis Speedway, former Yale track and football great and a member of the U. S. tuna fishing team which this year won the international trophy for the first time; plane racer Roscoe Turner, and a flock of others equally well known.

They were not even introduced.

Spotlight on Champs

The spotlight played only on the 24 champions.

Ben Hogan, the little big man of golf, who this year became the first ever to win the PGA, National and Western open crowns in a single season, spent most of the evening chasing Dick Rifenburg, Michigan's All-America end seeking his autograph. He had a tough time catching him, because Rifenburg was on the trail of Marion Garber, youthful bait-casting star from Toledo, for the same purpose.

Jimmy Conzelman, Chicago Cardinal coach whose club plays Philadelphia Sunday for the National football league title, was toastmaster. Even Jimmy, one of the nation's top after-dinner speakers, didn't make a speech. He called the champions, one by one, handed them their movie camera, and pointed them to a chair on the stage.

Ted Schroeder, America's Davis cup tennis star, hinted that he would turn professional if and when he wins the National amateur championship next year, but there were few other sports developments. Southworth told the guests at his table that he wouldn't predict his Braves would cop the National league crown again in 1949, but said:

"We'll be in the first three, and right now it looks like we've got a better chance than anyone else."

Lou Boudreau, manager of Cleveland's world champions, also said he couldn't predict another pennant, but he laughed as he slapped Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks on the back and declared:

"Give us one guy like this fellow and we'll win in a walk."

The champions, worth untold dollars if sold on the open market and who between them hold most of America's sports laurels, squirmed in bashfulness as the guests looked them over.

The Champions:

Baseball: Boudreau, most valuable player in the American league; DiMaggio, Yankee home run hitter; Stan Musial, National league most valuable player from St. Louis; Johnny Sain, star hurler of the Boston Braves.

Football: Charlie Trippi, star back of the Chicago Cardinals; Bob Chappuis, ditto with the Brooklyn Dodgers; Dick Rifenburg, Michigan's All-America end; and Charlie Justice, All-America halfback from North Carolina.

Basketball: George Mikan, Minneapolis Lakers, leading scorer in the Basketball Association of America; Bob Kurland, seven-foot star of Olympic champion Phillips Oilers.

Golf: Hogan, Lloyd Mangrum, amateur champion Willie Turnesa, and Frank Stranahan.

Tennis: Professional champion Jack Kramer, and Davis Cupper Schroeder.

Track and Field: 17-year-old Bob Mathias, Olympic decathlon king.

Billiards: Willie Hoppe.

PURDUE NOT SCARED OF NOTRE DAME, SAYS STU

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17—Coach Stuart K. (Stu Holcomb of Purdue doesn't consider it impossible to build up a football squad capable of meeting Notre Dame on equal terms.

In fact, "we intend to keep on playing Notre Dame indefinitely," Holcomb said at the Cathedral Latin high school football banquet last night.

He expressed the opinion that where Notre Dame gets its consistent edge is in depth of material.

"By depth I mean that they can take out a man and put in one just as good. And Notre Dame plays the game for keeps," he added. "They block hard and they tackle hard."

Holcomb admitted there was a considerable mental letdown on his squad after Purdue had made its valient but losing fight against Notre Dame, 28 to 27, in the opening game of the season.

He said the other reason for Purdue's mediocre showing the rest of the campaign was a lengthy string of injuries.

Edison Juniors Bow To Bucyrus, 26-24

The Edison men ahead several times in the final quarter but stubborn Bucyrus seized the lead each time. Terry, Bucyrus forward, was the night's big gun with 13 points and Hendel topped the Edison team with six.

TRACK COACH DIES

By The Associated Press

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 17—Thomas F. Keane, 76, former Oberlin, O., college track and football coach who established a remarkable track coaching record at Syracuse university, died last night. He came here in 1906. Keane served as coach or assistant coach on several U. S. Olymic teams in the 1930's.

Inaccuracy Spells Defeat for Irish

Lose to Marysville 36-14 in Home Debut

By GEORGE SCOTT

The St. Mary cagers shot 59 times and sunk five baskets.

That's the story behind their 36-14 [illegible] to Marysville in the Irish home debut at the Edison gym last night. Perhaps it was the bat that flew into the building during the Reserve game that brought in the Irish bad luck but whatever the reason the basketball refused to drop in. It circled the hoop and it just the [illegible] wouldn't go in.

At one point in the contest Coach Treeze Sharrock moaned, "Oh, take the lid off that basket." No one did. Tommy Rizzo led the Marion men with two buckets for a total of four points. He also was the high scorer for St Mary in the Reserve contest with seven markers.

The night was one Coach Sharrock would just as soon forget. In three quarters the Irish had sunk a total of eight points. The final period was a slightly different story. Someone at least tilted that lid a little bit for the Irish hat for six.

Bat Causes Bedlam

Probably the strangest event of the whole evening was what happened in the third quarter of the Reserve game. Somehow a bat flew into the gym and immediately all the feminine fans began screaming. The winged creature circled the floor and dove on the stands time and again. The game was called by the officials and they and the coaches went into a conference to decide what to do.

Obviously, the bat couldn't be ignored. The noise of shouting fans was too loud for the contest to continue. After attempting to address the crowd with no success, the officials decided to turn out the lights hoping the bat would leave the way he came in. Again only bedlam and no success followed. Fans tried to catch it in their coats and several persons brought out tennis rackets from an adjacent room but Mr. Bat seemed to be enjoying the rumpus he was causing and was intent on not being captured.

Scorns Direct Hit

After ten minutes had elapsed Referee Robert Milligan of Richwood, saw the bat light on the roof. He grabbed a basketball and took aim. His shot was good and although the bat didn't drop from the roof it seemed dead and ceased to [illegible] the program that had started a half hour late as it was.

When the situation had returned to near normal the Irish Reserves came back to outscore the Junior Monarchs but it was too late and they went down, 30-22.

Loren Grimes, Marysville gridder who piled up such an amazing record of place kick conversions during the past season, was the night's high scorer in the varsity contest. He racked up only nine points but it was enough to be the high [illegible] the box [illegible] game.

RATTERMAN IS BROWN TARGET IN PLAYOFF

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17—George (The Kid) Ratterman will be the Cleveland Browns' primary target in their All-America conference championship playoff with the Buffalo Bills here Sunday.

Cleveland Coach Paul Brown has a new impression of Ratterman after watching him spark the Bills to victory over the Baltimore Colts in the eastern division playoff last Sunday.

"For the first time I saw Ratterman play the type of game I had often heard about," Brown said. "If he repeats the performance against us, it will be a different football game than when we played the Bills before."

The former Notre Dame star has been the subject of much criticism this season. Prior to the Bills' game with the Browns in Cleveland two months ago, George was benched by coach Red Dawson for what the latter termed an indifferent performance a week earlier.

But the Bills now have a new Ratterman, according to Brown—a quarterback who is directing the team from the field of action.

The Browns, who have been installed as 17-point favorites by the local betting fraternity, wound up heavy work yesterday. From now on they'll engage only light drills.

Title holders since the conference began operating three years ago, the Browns can become the first team in pro football to win three successive championships and the first to go through the regular season and a title game without a defeat. They also can equal the major league consecutive victory string of 18 games.

BUCK CAGER OUT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 17—Forward Bob Winter of Ohio State university was declared ineligible for basketball yesterday because of low grades. Coach Tippy Dye said Jim Remington of Columbus would replace Winter, a Xenia product, on the 12-man traveling squad.

Adolph Rupp Joins In Fray at Boston

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—Adolph Rupp, Kentucky's famed basketball coach, figured in a disturbance at Boston last night as Kentucky's NCAA champs trimmed Holy Cross, 51-48.

The incident occurred near the end when an unidentified spectator struck Wah Wah Jones, a Kentucky player, with what appeared to be a rolled up paper.

Turk's Death Saddens Armory Wrestling Fans

Wrestling at the Marion Armory had a touch of sadness last night.

Laurence LeBelle, known as "Al Abdi the Terrible Turk," who kept a capacity crowd roaring at Napoleon Wednesday night. He was scheduled to wrestle at the Armory last night. Tom Bradley of Minneapolis Minn. was booked to take his place.

After the tag team [illegible] had been deadlocked at a fall apiece, the team of Steve Nemeth and Bradley won the match over Dutch Schultz and Tom Hughes when Bradley got Hughes near the [illegible] in the [illegible] to finish him off with a crab hold after 13 minutes of the fall.

In single man wrestling Nemeth took Schultz and Hughes won over Bradley. The ten minute opener was a draw.

Beg. Jones went for the spectator who started throwing punches.

Rupp came to Jones' defense and was struck several glancing blows before police stopped the fray.

A sellout crowd of 13,909 saw the hectic finish. It was Kentucky's fifth in a row.

Eighty per cent of the players on the University of South Carolina football varsity are war veterans.

PREXY CAGERS PLAY DELAWARE TONIGHT

After playing their smoothest brand of ball to date against Shelby, the Harding cagers will attempt to break loose from their current deadlock with a victory tonight when they take the floor against Delaware in their second road contest in a row. The Prexies have swamped over Galion and Ashland and bowed to Bexley and Columbus South.

Delaware Wilds has taken four straight in its last and furious type of basketball. The squad is the same one as last year with seven lettermen back. Their last win was over Columbus Aquinas, 59-36.

Their specialty is the fast break and high scores usually result. Height is no problem for they have plenty of it in two of their starters. Forward Jack McKinney is six feet, five and Bill Schuff a center is six feet, three. Johnson is their other forward and guards will probably be Warner and Coppock.

Prexie pilot Kenny Somerlot seems to have hit upon the right combination of height and speed. Merl Daum and Bill Buckingham will start at the forward positions, Jack Daum at center, and at guard Dick Thomas and Dick Wolfe.

Peace Talk Spreads At Pro Grid Loop Parley

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17 — Reports that a peace conference might head off the war between the senior National football league and the All-America conference as they gathered today for their annual meeting and the playoff game.

The younger circuit has been free from a truce from the first day of its being. Most owners in the National have opposed it on the belief that the established league could outlast the newcomer.

A writer for a New York newspaper, Joe King, predicted yesterday that the All-America conference would fold up and that the champion Cleveland Browns and the San Francisco 49ers would enter the National loop.

However, Admiral Jonas Ingram, commissioner of the All-America, said the owners will go into today's session with a better outlook than they had at a comparable time a year ago.

Ingram said he also anticipated peace with the National league within 30 days.

"I'm confident," he said, "seven of the National league owners are in favor of some kind of working agreement now. I'm confident some kind of settlement will be made within the next month.

It really will be difficult to put a plan into operation. The first thing is to work out the makeup of the leagues, arrange a schedule that will have no conflicts and plan a common draft.

Firm in favor of two eight-team leagues, with the one team from Chicago in each, Ingram didn't say when the All-National league holiday was due, apparently its George Preston Marshall owner of the Washington Redskins, Marshall reiterated his opposition to a truce yesterday after Alexis Thompson, owner of the Philadelphia Eagles, came up once again with the proposal that the two leagues get together.

Whether there's a truce or not it is known that the conference magnates will discuss other economies in their meetings.

One suggestion to be considered would cut the player roster from the present 35 to either 30 or 28.

Another would increase the number of games to be played. Each club now plays 14 games. A 17-game program has been suggested which would include mid-week dates.

The moguls also will study the television problem during their four day stay.

2 GAMES AT GREEN CAMP

The Green Camp Underdogs will meet the Richwood five in the first game of a twin bill on the Green Camp school court Saturday at 7:30 p. m. Marseilles will be the opposition for the All Stars in the second game.

POLLAK, KENNEDY'S, COMMERCIAL WIN

With two new teams added to the loop the YMCA industrial league basketball of the Y gym and the Pollak Steel Bombers, Wilson and Sakel 47-40 Kennedy's Grocery took A. O. Stern's 38-35 and Commercial Steel laced Marion Power Shovel 55-35.

Pollak with the added strength of Jim Rush and Milliser who were absent last week, romped over one of the two newcomers to the circuit in a closely fought game that wasn't decided until the final few minutes. Rush had 12 points when he fouled out mid-way in the second half. Sakel himself took the scoring honors of his own squad with 19.

Kennedy's Grocery of Marion the second addition to the loop, came from behind by six points at the half to take the Alloy Steelers by ten markers. Loyer of Kennedy was the game's highest with 12 points.

The Commercial vs MPS contest was close until mid-way in the second half when the Commercial men got hot. The game was a rough one with 41 fouls called by officials George Keel and Gene Freet.

Central Tops Vernon To Take Loop Lead

The Central Junior squad trampled Vernon Junior High school 40-20 Thursday night to gain sole possession of first place in the Tri-City league. It seemed that the Wildcat sharpshooters just couldn't miss as they racked up 24 tallies in the first half while holding Vernon to only four. In the second half the Bulldogs turned it on but they were unable to overcome their 30-point deficit.

Central's center, McDaniel, paced the 'Cat attack with 14 points as Frank Gerber, Vernon pivot-man, collected five for the losers.

Central also won from Vernon in a very close Reserve game 22-20.

Joe DiMaggio Drove In Most Runs in AL

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—New York's Joe DiMaggio, who led Boston's Ted Williams in the 1948 American league batting and slugging averages, but the Yankee Clipper failed to repeat as runs-batted-in champ, the way it looks now.

Official league statistics today showed amazing Williams the slugging champion with a .651 mark and DiMaggio the RBI queen with 155 and a total of 43 major league records between them tied or broken.

Williams, whose .369 average topped the individual batting finish by 19 percentage points ahead of DiMaggio's .586 in the slugging compilations, but was tied in RBI's with 127, twenty-eight behind Joltin' Joe. The Yankee star played in 153 games, compared with Williams' 137.

WILBERFORCE SCORES 100 POINTS IN GAME

By The Associated Press

Wilberforce State college, in the basketball scoring delight last night running up 100 points against Alabama State, which got 53. The winners netted 30 points in each half.

Wilberforce, which now has won five out of five starts, shot 40 per cent of its shots from the field, didn't enough, only eight Wilberforce players saw

The game was played at Wilberforce. The home club barely made the 100-point mark. Jim Reddy swishing in a long shot with seconds left to play. Reddy finished with 27 points but teammate Bill Shields took scoring honors with 29. Wilberforce was in front, 50-26 at halftime.

"I've never seen anything like it," Coach John Cooper of Wilberforce said after the game. "I'm sure tickled pink with these fellows. They're a great ball club. We gave away considerable height, and still won by a big margin."

The 100 points were the most ever registered by a Wilberforce State quintet. Wilberforce university, which shares the campus with State, played in a couple 100-point games last season.

Another unbeaten Ohio quintet, Capital, also scored a lopsided win. The Columbus club stopped Wilmington, 75-37, for its third victory—and its second in the Ohio conference. Bill Butler sparked Capital with 17 points, but Wilmington's Walt Hobble took game honors with 18.

Stage, Screen Veteran Gives 8,000th Show

By International News Service

MT. GRETNA, Pa.—Harry A. Huguenot, veteran actor now appearing with the Gretna Playhouse company in Gretna, can tell you where he has spent virtually every night for more than 40 years.

The reason is simple. Harry has kept a scrap book which shows every performance and part he has played since he first stepped on the stage 41 years ago.

Huguenot recently gave his 8,000th performance and the role of Dr. Bartell is the 647th part he has played.

A veteran of both stage and screen, he has appeared with almost all the big names on Broadway and on the road. His scrapbook also discloses he spent years in vaudeville and light opera. He has sung Koko in "The Mikado" over 500 times.

As for those nights when he is "at liberty," Harry can be found in the Lambs Club, New York.

The talented actor, who is a great favorite with summer theater goers of central Pennsylvania, has appeared in two fine productions this summer. The first one was "Three's a Family" and the second was "Apple of His Eye," both comedies.

SOYBEANS NOW VALUABLE CROP

Once-Rare Plant Brings Ohio Farmers $43,000,000 This Year.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 17—Soybeans, once a rare oriental plant, are bringing in more than $43,000,000 to Ohio farmers this year

This compares to a cash return from the same crop of about $225,000 some 25 years ago

The difference illustrates the position that soybeans have taken in recent years as a major crop

This year, the agriculture department estimates a record crop nationally of 210,475,000 bushels of soybeans harvested for beans (A small amount is used for hay, grazed or plowed under).

The Ohio production for beans is estimated at 18,160,000 bushels, grown on 908,000 acres, chiefly in the northwest quarter of the state.

In 1924, when acreage of the crop was small nationally, Ohio harvested 230,000 bushels on 20,000 acres The beans then were less in demand and brought in less per bushel

Since 1943, soybeans have been the leading oil crop in the United States. About 80 per cent of the crop is processed into oil and oil meal A small amount is used to make soya flour or for specialized food industries.

The soybean oil is used chiefly for making shortening, margarine, mayonnaise and salad dressing Some is used in the manufacture of paints and varnish.

The soybean meal is used for poultry and hog feed, for candy, baked goods and premixed foods, and in such industrial products as plastics, adhesives and foam solutions

A bushel of soybeans produces about nine pounds of oil and 48 pounds of meal

Edwin G Strand, economist with the agriculture department, says that a continued strong demand for soybeans is indicated through 1949 because world supplies of fats and oils are still low.

The all-time record production in the state was 1942, when 25,473,000 bushels were grown. The war years of 1942 through 1945 all exceeded the 1948 production. This year's total in Ohio, however, is the highest since the war and exceeds any prewar year.

SAY MAIL HERE IS INADEQUATE

C. of C. Urges Construction of Large Postoffice for Marion.

Marion postoffice facilities are inadequate to take care of present increasing business and community needs, it is declared in the Chamber of Commerce News Bulletin for December.

An article in the bulletin entitled "Marion Postal Receipts More Than Doubled since 1940", urges promotion of a congressional appropriation for a new postoffice.

It recalls that in 1945 Chamber directors plumped for a resolution urging the U. S. postoffice department to build a new office here and that in the following year a postoffice inspector surveyed the situation and recommended to Washington that one be built.

Since funds have not as yet been appropriated for this project by Congress and because of the urgency of need in Marion, promotion of this appropriation through congress should be urged now with all contacts that can get favorable action," the bulletin reads.

Figures Support Facts

Figures are quoted in the bulletin supporting the urgency of need. Postal receipts one third higher in each of the 11 months of 1948 than 1947 figures, an estimated total receipts figure of over $400,000 this year as compared to $274,887.73 for 1947 and predictions of increased mail volume next year by at least one Marion firm, the Jay Marsh company, are the main supporting facts.

Principal credit for the present increase is given to the Fullington corporation which mailing September mailed out 500,000 pieces followed by 451,000 in October and the huge figure of 1,255,000 pieces per month on the average at the present time the article says, pointing to the yearly flow of mail through the Marion postoffice.

Built in 1910

The present office was built in 1910 to serve a community of approximately 15,000. Marion's present population is conservatively estimated to exceed 35,000, the bulletin explains, adding that the only improvement to the building since its erection has been a "slight addition" to the work room and addition of several offices built to the existing structure in 1937. Government agencies normally honored in a postoffice building are not able to do so in Marion but must seek other quarters. This practice has caused considerable inconvenience to the folks of this community, the bulletin opines.

TWO MEN GRADUATE IN LUMBER COURSE

Bucyrus and Upper Sandusky Represented in Class.

Two men from here, Verne E. Gessner of Bucyrus and Neil Kinsey of Upper Sandusky, were graduated recently from a short training course in lumber and building materials taken conducted at Ohio State University according to information received from the Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers, sponsors of the course.

This course was the sixth in a series and about 30 men made up the class. Plans are now underway for the seventh short course scheduled to convene at Columbus Jan. 31. Addressing the graduates was Gates Ferguson, advertising manager of the Celotex corporation.

M. Gessner is from the Home Lumber Co. in Bucyrus, and Mr. Kinsey is of the Stephan Lumber Co., Upper Sandusky.

A demonstration of the type of instruction given in the short courses will be a feature of the annual convention of the Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers at Cleveland Jan. 18-20.

Keeping the Record Clear

SIGNS multiply that Mr. Truman's campaign attacks on business profits have encouraged opponents of the profit system in general. What may have been intended as a talking point, to win votes from people who were worried about inflation, is being used as a fighting point by persons grinding bigger and heavier axes than the issue of high prices. Some of them are coming significantly close to saying that profit is wrong per se—not too much profit, or too little profit, but all profit.

Such persons are not interested in merely reforming the profit system. They itch to reform the economic system to suit themselves and thereby to do away with profits. The ax they are sharpening by questioning the right of private enterprise to make money when there's money to be made is intended for ultimate use on private enterprise itself. But first, they hope to embitter public opinion against profits, to make their ultimate attack easier.

If one simple question were to be asked of every witness testifying in a congressional hearing or any matter related to the profit system, the record could be kept clear: "Do you believe that business in the United States is entitled to make a profit? Answer yes or no."

Some of the witnesses would try to squirm out of a direct answer by making long statements full of ifs, buts and maybes. Some would refuse to answer. Perhaps a few would answer no and go on from there. But only the witnesses who answered yes and really meant it would be qualified to testify in behalf of the profit system; all others would be suspected of intent to do away with the system if possible. The American people have a right to know who these persons are and what kind of an ax they're sharpening on the grindstone of publicity for their opinions.

Atomic Energy in Person

THE resignation of W. W. Waymack as a member of the atomic energy commission takes out of life one of the most energetic Americans of the 20th century. Mr. Waymack, who reached the age of 60 last October, became a member of the atomic energy commission in the fall of 1946 and made it his special duty to inform the public as fully as possible about this stupendous new factor in its existence. He did a good job, as thousands who heard him talk and who read his writings on the subject can testify.

Before becoming preoccupied with atomic energy, Mr. Waymack had served on other public commissions too numerous to mention. His private interests were similarly diversified. Until 1946 he was editor of one of the country's great newspapers, the Des Moines Register and Tribune.

The United States stands in the debt of its citizens who have the ability and energy to contribute to solutions of its common problems. Mr. Waymack has been one of this invaluable group. As the first member of the atomic energy commission to retire, he will bring attention to the fact that one more heavy obligation has been added to the load which must be borne by private citizens able and willing to accept public responsibility.

Something Still Smells

WITH the case of Alger Hiss in the hands of a federal grand jury, where it should have been long ago, the house committee investigating un-American activities can move on to something else. There are still plenty of odors to track down, even though the trails are cold.

Any further attempt by the White House or any other executive agency to get rid of the committee, which is a standing committee of the legislative branch of the government, will raise a stench that the American people themselves may have to do something about.

The fact is that the committee's disclosures forced the department of justice to get busy. The fact is that there was some kind of a deal among various executive officers of the United States government to keep the public from learning about such things as the committee has brought to light. The fact is that the sovereign people of this nation were being whipsawed by a hush-hush maneuver designed to give them the short end of the deal in two games—the game the Commies played in Washington during the thirties, and the game the bureaucrats were playing with the people's national security.

A red herring, which is what the chief spokesman for the executive department calls the spy disclosures, is a dead over-ripe fish whose decay has been arrested by preservatives. But the herring still smells, in spite of the preservatives. Keeping it in cold storage doesn't get rid of the smell, as Mr. Truman and his discomfited associates now know.

Did You Know

It is estimated that England's population was reduced from about four million to about two million in the great plague of the 14th Century.

* * *

New York authorities claim the city produces $4,000,000,000 worth of goods every year, which they say is greater than that of Detroit, Philadelphia and Cleveland combined.

* * *

Changes in passenger auto registration in the United States between 1941 and 1946 varied from an increase of 10.4 per cent in California to a decrease of 21.2 per cent in Nevada.

What About Recession?

By David Lawrence

Signs of Slow-up Fade as Business Spurts

WASHINGTON

SEVERAL times since V-J day economists have noted the signs of an oncoming recession only to have business spurt upward after a brief lull. This does not mean that the signs were not significant or that they were not as important as when they appeared in previous situations that might be termed comparable. But it does mean that corrective factors set in which changed the picture and arrested the downward trend.

Something of the same kind is happening this month. Undoubtedly there are signs of diminished employment and curtailment of business operations. They could be significant of a major change, but the probabilities are that they are indicative of the very process of readjustment which has been going on since the end of World War II.

The national economy is operating today on a volume of business running from $225,000,000,000 to $250,000,000,000. Nobody alive today has ever witnessed this experience before, and history records none. So what happens when such a giant economy gets a setback is entirely different from what has happened before. What would have been the beginning of a tailspin before is taken in its stride by the national economy.

* * *

THERE IS A READJUSTMENT going on in every industry where supply is catching up to demand. This is occurring in many lines. It means that companies with a vanishing backlog of orders now must do some selling. They cease to be "order-takers," rationing goods to favored customers. From now on they turn to normal operations. This means a return also to efficiency and the pruning of expenses. It may mean a reduction of profits, too.

One trouble about the profit figures to date is that they have been interpreted for ulterior reasons. Labor economists, for instance, have probably furnished the right facts to their chiefs but the latter have chosen instead to quote profit figures as a justification for further wage increases. Undoubtedly there are businesses where the pay scales are not as high as they should be. But it is also true that most of the profits recently came as a result of abnormal sales volume. Once the volume drops off, the fixed expenses do not drop off correspondingly. Once the wage levels are held at a fixed point or increased in the face of declining volume of sales, the drop off in profits can easily be so large as to change the whole picture for an otherwise prosperous company.

* * *

ALREADY THE SO-CALLED "break even" point for many companies is higher than at any point ever reached before. This means that the fixed expenses, including wages, are so high that when volume drops off it brings the red line of deficits too close for comfort. Economizing is the immediate consequence.

There is another side to the problem—the case of the large profits which are about to be taxed away to get more revenue for the government. Fearing excess-profits taxes, many companies which have been spending money for expansion of facilities call a halt to such plans. This is deflationary and results in cancellation of order or withholding of contracts—and it affects employment very quickly.

These readjustments are difficult enough when natural factors, such as supply and demand, are at work but when the impact of governmental action is added, the result is hesitation and uncertainty and an abandonment of expansion plans. It probably will not be known for several weeks just how many billions of dollars of work—and hence employment—were canceled by the fears engendered since election. Whether or not justified, such fears have been spread and they have done untold damage to many workers who are being laid off today. Certain talkative leaders on the radical side may honestly believe themselves to be friends of the workingman, but they do not realize how their reckless talk causes business uneasiness and hold up planning in an otherwise fast-moving economy.

BUSINESS WILL NOT develop a recession, because the money being spent for armament and for international aid—approximately $21,000,000,000 — is so powerful a force in the stream of business that readjustments in one line of industry cannot depress the over-all picture in another. The interdependence of industries is more important than ever before, but individual industries are in better shape—thanks to the profits of 1948 and previous years—to maintain their organizations and adjust themselves to new conditions. Also manpower a a whole is still short so that after brief periods of spotty unemployment there should be a resumption of full employment.

The Bipartisan Field

By George E. Sokolsky

WHILE the American political system calls for a party in power and a loyal opposition, it is not essential that the two parties oppose each other merely for the sake of opposition. In the field of foreign relations, a bipartisan policy has for some years now given evidence of astonishing success. In the fields of national defense and the reorganization of the executive branch of the government, some steps in this direction have been taken which are commendable.

A bipartisan policy does not mean that criticism and security are forbidden or even limited. It does mean that an effort is made, in a national cause, to avoid the wear and tear of opposition on partisan grounds. As I have already pointed out, if men of such political divergence as Herbert Hoover and Dean Acheson can agree upon a recommendation, the preliminary work to get a job done on a bi-partisan basis is helpful to the country.

This rule should be applied to the very vexed and difficult-to-prove problem of Communist intrigue, infiltration, sabotage and espionage within the government. No one would say that Harry Truman is a Communist or that he can possibly sympathize with them. Yet he indirectly shields them by calling a congressional investigation of them a "red herring." This was not a quip; it is an attitude not toward the Communists but towards the Republicans.

* * *

THE DEMOCRATS feel that the Republicans reopened the Chambers-Hiss case during the special session of congress for the sole purpose of using the hearings of the committee on un-American activities as part of their effort to elect Dewey as president. In a word, they feel that it was an anti-Truman movement, and they resented it. To the Democrats, what was disclosed was not a matter of national significance but a "headline" theft—an effort to divert attention from the presidential campaign to Communist espionage.

This, of course, the Republicans deny, but their denials fall on deaf ears. And it is just possible that had the pumpkin material been found before election day, Dewey might have received the additional votes which would have elected him. Such speculation does not help in the solution of the problem which is: was the United States betrayed by its own officials in the interest of Soviet Russia?

The anger of the Democrats over this activity has been so keen that it has not yet subsided, although they are now secure for four years and the stealing of headlines has not aided their opponents. Yet the problem remains and they know that the truth of it cannot be uncovered under the rules of evidence applicable in the courts. The rules of evidence are the greatest defense the individual has against tyranny and they should not be lightly regarded even in time of crisis. The lawyers for Communists, spies and other despicable creatures understand this, too, and take full advantage of both the fact and the sentiment.

* * *

THE CONGRESSIONAL committee exists to investigate matters for purposes of legislation. As the guilt or virtue of no individual is involved theoretically, such committees permit themselves the widest latitude. Often the mere questioning of an individual results, however, in a public assumption of his guilt, the stigma remaining with him for life. It is this misunderstanding of the purpose, function and method of the congressional committee and its effect upon individuals which has brought upon such committees a degree of public censure.

Nevertheless, these committees have been of great public usefulness throughout American history. The Dies committee and its successor, the committee on un-American activities, during the 10 years of their existence, have performed an invaluable service to the country. Such work should be of a bipartisan character. All factors in using such a committee to advance or retard the personal fortunes of candidates ought to be eliminated. That seems difficult to do—against human nature some will say—but nothing is impossible if the will to achieve national unity is exercised by those in high places. Had that been the attitude in 1941, when the Dies committee gave the attorney general the data on the Harold Ware cells, we should not be facing the Chambers-Hiss problem today.

Danes Leave Home

By The Associated Press

COPENHAGEN — More and more Danes want to leave their native country and settle down as immigrants in other continents. America is generally preferred. The Danish state runs an emmigration office. Nine hundred people left Denmark in 1947; 770 went to the United States of America, the rest to British dominions. This year 1,000 Danes have emmigrated, 650 going to the U.S.A., 200 to Indiana, 54 to Australia, 26 to New Zealand and the rest to various parts of the world. By the end of this year it is expected that more than 1,800 persons will have left Denmark for good.

The U.S. has a quota of 1,181 Danes yearly. No other country has a definite quota saying how many Danes will be allowed to settle down in their territory. Emmigrating Danes are not allowed to take with them more than $50. The reason for increasing emmigration from Denmark appears to be fear of a future European war and the feeling that bigger states offer better prospects.

Who, then, is the invincible man? He whom nothing that is outside the sphere of his moral purpose can dismay—Epictetus.

Incentive to Men of Ability

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Dec. 17, 1938.

Vice President Garner returned to Washington for an intimate talk with President Roosevelt which some politicians speculated might go far toward determining whether there would be harmony or conflict among Democratic legislators in the next congress.

Miss Mary Alice Osborne and Floyd R. Stumbo were married in Central Christian church by the pastor, Dr. Harry L. Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Connell of Pearl street entertained members of the JFC club at dinner at their home.

Henry P. Drake, Jr., a freshman at Notre Dame university, arrived to spend the holiday vacation with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Drake of North State street.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McAdams of Merkle avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney E. Andrews of North Main street and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Smith of Edgewood drive.

Members of the Olney Avenue school faculty met at Ringer's Inn for their annual Christmas dinner and gift exchange. Present were Miss Luella Scholl, principal, Miss Ruth Auman, Miss Catherine Thew, Miss Dorothy Buckley, Miss Ruth Lauer, Miss Bertha Thomas, Miss Elgise Dixon and Miss Dorothy Pace.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Dec. 17, 1928.

A plan to weld Marion's social, civic, religious and philanthropic groups into a single organization for the general community welfare was announced by E. N. Hale, general secretary of the YMCA, as invitations to a luncheon meeting arranged to consider the proposal were issued for Wednesday.

Reports indicated that a decrease in the influenza epidemic here was at last under way.

Mrs. Leon Boulton was elected president of the TJM club in a meeting held at the home of Miss Henriette Geer on East Fairground street.

Miss Trella Minard was hostess to the Three D's Bridge club at her home on North Main street and the club members held their annual Christmas gift exchange.

'Only Co-ed at Tech

By The Associated Press

PLATTEVILLE, Wis. — Mary Klitzkie wants to be a geologist so she's digging for her degree amidst 236 male students at the Wisconsin Institute of Technology here.

The 18-year-old, blue-eyed, auburn-haired miss, who enrolled this fall in the three-year mining engineering course, deems it an honor to be the only coed at Tech. But she never will forget her first appearance on the campus.

"There were about 50 fellows standing around as I walked up to the main entrance, but they looked more like 50,000," says Mary.

"During those first few days they stared at me and I stared at them. But the situation soon got better. They've stopped staring and we all get along fine now," she states.

Who can blame the fellows for gawking? Mary is the fourth girl to attend Tech since it was established in 1907.

Daily Bible Thought

A right spirit requires periodical cleansing. Banish sensual thoughts, selfish desires and unworthy ambitions. — Ps. 51.10, "Create in me a clean heart O God and renew a right spirit within me."

Un-American Activities

By Raymond Moley

THE house committee on un-American activities has been one of the most durable of our government's agencies. Under former Congressman Dies and, later, under Congressman Thomas, it weathered heavy storms. Two Presidents have attacked it. Mrs. Roosevelt has persistently denounced it. Powerful newspapers have called for its abolition. A small group of congressmen has brought every means to bear against it. The department of justice has not been friendly. But over and over it has been confirmed by overwhelming bipartisan house votes and more and more money has been given for its work.

Now it would seem that the committee can survive the indictment of its chairman, many confessed mistakes in procedure and a bewildering election upset. Such a consistent strength must have a deep and solid basis. Congressmen do not vote in such great majorities for things which are not heavily supported at home. The American people have really wanted this committee, despite the enemies it has made.

* * *

THIS PUBLIC SUPPORT of the committee, no doubt, is because of our conviction as Americans that we have a way of life which can be undermined and endangered by types of propaganda and under-cover activities inspired from abroad. And that while there is no disposition to curtail freedom of speech and of the press, it is the duty of government to expose and outlaw activities genuinely inimical to our institutions. The additional function exercised by the committee in investigating the executive branch of the government, while incidental to the discovery of un-American activities, centers in an established right of Congress to determine how public money is being spent.

In the Chambers-Hiss case the two functions mentioned above are united. Chambers represented a subversive, alien movement. Hiss was a member of the government. And if the allegations of Chambers are true, the committee has not only exposed a subversive movement of great importance but it has shown that the executive department not only employed improper personnel, but in its law enforcement functions failed to discover and deal with a dangerous subversive movement.

* * *

THE PRESIDENT in his denunciation of the un-American activities committee has risked a flat defeat at the very opening of the new congress. For by any calculation there are enough votes to reject any effort to abolish it. Perhaps the best course the President and his leaders can take is to accept the inevitable and then show how much better they can do the job. If it is procedure which has been defective, let the new Democratic congress set up something better. There is room for improvement, but no constructive suggestions have been made. Here is a real challenge and opportunity for the critics.

The President has not helped himself by his reckless charges of partisanship. The committee has unearthed enough to create a profound distrust in our state department. The Chambers revelations are serious. It may be true that the secret documents will not prove to have vitally affected our safety. Anyone who has served in the policy-making ranges of the state department knows that reams of rubbish come in marked "confidential," and that much of this is no secret to newspapermen. But the fact that documents were secretly handed out to an agent of a foreign government reveals a deplorable state of affairs in the very nerve center of government.

A conviction exists in the minds of a great many members of congress that there is a great deal more to come. The relations between Chambers and Hiss have not been cleared up. Nor has it become clear that the disclosures so far have covered all those who were implicated in the espionage. There may be herrings other than red ones yet to be dragged to the light.

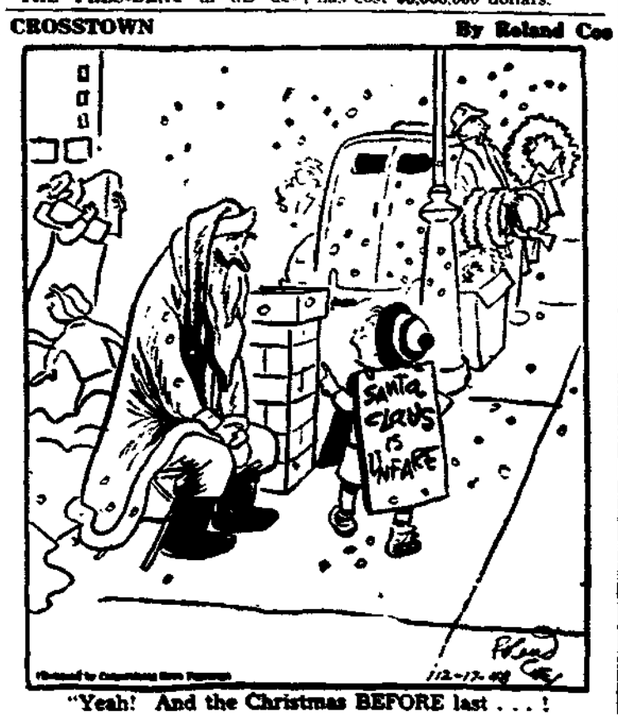
Underground Stretches

By The Associated Press

LONDON—London's sprawling giant of a subway system is taking its biggest stretch in 31 years. The underground, as it's called, is opening 10 miles of new life and nine new stations in the northeastern and northwestern suburbs.

That will give it 243 miles of line and 278 stations—more railroad than in all of Paraguay and enough to reach from New York to below Washington. It's the biggest extension at one clip since 1917. It was accomplished by electrifying old steam tracks—the underground runs on the surface in the outskirts. But at that it has cost $8,000,000 dollars.

CROSSTOWN By Roland Coe



"Yeah! And the Christmas BEFORE last . . . !

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Thoughts on a Superdooper Christmas Tree

(Occasioned by observation of those giant ones in various City Hall plazas and in public parks.)

Oh, Christmas tree of super size,
You are a treat to any eyes
And yet, if you will pardon me,
I think I'll take a smaller tree

So massive and so very high
You seem to brush the distant sky;
You are a Christmas tree apart—
And yet you do not touch my heart.

A super Christmas tree you are
Topped by a superdooper star
With trimmings worth a fortune, but
Give me a tree much lower cut.

Colossal and gigantic, too,
Is any Christmas tree like you;
Your decorations run to tons—
But I've been moved by smaller ones.

It took a crew to raise you there
In plaza or in public square,
Or in some neon-lighted spot—
But still to me you're not so hot!

You rise full sixty feet or more;
Into the clouds you seem to soar.
But I'm more moved by those that glow
So faintly in a cabin low.

Your lights are visible for miles
And glorify some Yule tree styles—
But I prefer a smaller one

For size does not make Santa more
To children than he was before.
Nor would the Manger spread more grace
Carved on some mighty mountain's face.

It took a corps to cut you down.
A special freight brought you to town.
But there is something much more warm
In one borne home in mother's arm.

Department store and street corner Santa Clauses are apt to be pretty poor facsimiles. In fact we encountered one the other day who, bothering to get his whiskers on straight, exclaimed, "The show MUST go on."

"That's easy, just mark it 'Strictly Confidential'."

Final tabulations just completed show that only about 51 per cent of the voters of the United States bothered to vote in the last election. It is our bet that the millions who did not do so include most of the boys and girls who are loudest in their denunciation of countries that don't appreciate democracies.

Unsung Heroes

By Truman Twill

The other fellow's job looks easier — with notable exceptions, listed herewith.

No one wants to trade places with the structural steel worker who balances himself in a stiff wind on the narrow girders of a new skyscraper in process of construction;

Or the window-washer who straps himself to a couple of puny little hooks and washes windows in a tall building while leaning into space at a 30-degree angle;

Or the diver who puts on a water-tight suit and is let down into the drink to find out what's down there, as if anyone cared;

Or the painter who balances on a narrow plank umpsteen feet in space and slaps a heavy paint brush back and forth all day with paint running down his sleeve;

Or the test pilot who climbs into a new airplane to find out at what speed the wings, tail assembly and other essential parts will begin to fly into space;

Or the store clerk who stands on his dogs all day and must be nice to customers, no matter how disagreeable the customers may be to the clerk;

Or the coal miner who goes down into a hole in the ground to send out the coal that customers complain about because it costs too much;

Or the foundryman who makes a living by broiling his face, smashing his toes and serving an apprenticeship in Hades;

Or the bus driver who wrestles a couple of tons of rolling stock through traffic hour after hour, with an eye peeled for reckless drivers;

Or the motorcycle policeman who herds an iron horse through rain, sleet, snow and motorists who would jump at a chance to run him down;

Or the fellow who repairs sloping roofs and knows that he will not bounce if he makes a misstep and launches himself into space;

Or the doctor in the emergency department of a hospital, wondering what kind of human wreckage will drop in for the next repair job;

Or the truck driver who must stay awake for hours on end and wide enough awake, moreover, to keep that clumsy rig from getting into a snafu;

Or the jockey who must get interested in something else whenever he is tempted to eat a full meal and take on weight;

Or the attendant in a hospital for the violently insane, obliged to keep track of whatever mischief may be brewing;

Or a fellow who must work all day on his knees and grunt with pain every time he straightens up.

In other words, what makes people do such jobs anyway? Why don't all of them do something easy, like the other fellow's job?

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

At my question, Junior's turkey gobbler look faded, and Roderick lost his cocksure manner I secretly plumed myself upon my success in diverting their attention from what might have been one of their rare quarrels

"Sure thing, Mums" Junior said quickly and Roderick chimed in with a resounding "You bet. Just leave it to us"

"I knew I could count on you both" I told them truthfully "You may go back and talk with him now and after a little while I'll have Aunt Katharine tell him he must lie down for a little while and that as she will be busy, she would like me to sit with him

"That will be your signal to entice Faith into some sort of game which will keep her absorbed for the length of time I'll need—less than half an hour—to talk to your father"

"We'll be watching for your signal," Junior told me enthusiastically

"Then, we'll go back to the living room now" I said, "and I'm sure your father is rested enough to talk to you"

"If he isn't," Roderick quipped with a grin, "we'll turn into mice"

They escorted me back to the living room, and, leaving them with Mary and Faith in enraptured audience with Dicky I went into Mary's bedroom, originally mine, where Katharine was busily sewing, with all signs of her nurse's kit cleaning put away

"Something on the massive mind?" she queried as she cocked an inquisitive eye at my face. "Can I help?"

"You're the only one who can," I told her, and she put down her book.

"I'm tuned to your station," she said, with a grin. "Proceed with the broadcast"

"I must talk to Dicky alone about something very important" I told her. "The boys will lure Faith into some sort of game, and Mary, no doubt, will play along But I need you to set the stage."

"And what role will the old character woman play?" she gibed.

"In another hour, I want you to take Dicky's pulse again, and announce that he must have another period of rest"

"That won't be any set piece," she said. "I'll probably be doing that anyway He's coasting along on his nerves—and his nerve, and he's got to be watched"

Katharine" I gasped, but she quirked a quizzical eyebrow at me, and held up a protesting hand

"No silly ideas" she cautioned "He's in no danger, and in surprisingly good shape But he's the world's worst patient, as you know, and I'm going to keep him in shape if I kill him"

We both burst out laughing at that one When she had wiped her eyes, she put another question

"Is that the extent of my role?"

"No I want you to say that you are busy, and would like to have me sit with Dicky in case he should need anything"

"Okay" she said I'll attend to it," and kept her word so efficiently that the end of the hour saw me sitting by the side of Dicky's bed

"Something's up," he said "That double play was almost too smooth."

"I want to know," I said slowly, "what you want me to do about that business of Roderick and the money—and the school."

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

A Blood Vessel Disorder.

For some time, groups of doctors everywhere have been studying disorders affecting the blood vessels, that is, the arteries and veins, especially in a condition called thromboangiitis obliterans. This is also known as Buerger's disease In this condition there is some inflammation of these blood vessels and this inflammation results in the blocking of the flow of blood through them Depending upon the location of the blood vessels, this disorder may cause little disability, severe pain or, at times, even death of the tissues due to lack of the blood supply.

This condition occurs most often in men, but occasionally it does develop in women Just what produces it has not been definitely determined However it has been suggested that the excessive use of tobacco may be a factor Virus infection has also been thought to be a possible cause

The disorder comes on gradually There may be aches and pains in the legs, some numbness weak arches and muscle cramps Sometimes the sudden formation of a blood clot in one of the veins or small arteries is the first sign of the disease

It is important that this condition be discovered early, since treatment is more effective in the early stages Disappearance of the pulsation or beating in the blood vessels is one of the early symptoms

In the early stages of this condition the treatment consists of the avoidance of tobacco, increasing the intake of salt and water and the elimination of infections in the teeth tonsils sinuses and elsewhere in the body

As the disorder progresses the use of certain substances to delay the clotting of the blood such as heparin and dicoumarol may be helpful X ray treatments of the areas where the blood clots form giving of injections of typhoid vaccine into a vein in small doses may bring some benefit

Dr Geza deTakats has found that the injection of a substance known as sodium tetraphenate into a vein is better than the typhoid vaccine Twelve injections are employed, given every second day

In the latter stages of Buerger's disease when the condition has become quite severe an operation is sometimes performed in which the nerves to the blood vessels are cut This operation has been found helpful in many instances
